REVENGE

Theory in KILLING OF COLLECTOR IN CHELSEA

Some motive more sinister than robbery was believed today by police to be back of the slaying of Jack Cohen, 40-year-old insurance agent.

Cohen, who lived at 232 Quincy street, Roxbury, and who was a collector for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., was shot to death in a lonely section of Prospect avenue, Chelsea.

His books showed that he had been collecting in premiums, not a watch, worth much more than $70, was still on his body. This, with the fact that two bullets were fired into his head at a range so close that the powder pitted the flesh, gave police today a theory of revenge.

Backing up their theory was a fearful statement by Cohen's motherless daughter, Evelyn, 15, that he had promised her money to fight if ever he were arrested by bandits.

The daughter said that when her father, formerly a florist in Montpelier, took the position as collector with the insurance company, she feared that some day he might be held up.

Cohen, however, assured her, she said, that if ever he was confronted by bandits he would turn over the money without resistance.

Shot Through Ear

The collector was shot through the cheek under the right eye and shot again through the right ear. Police believe that Cohen died as he attempted to fight his way out of a carefully laid ambush by men who knew his schedule.

Today they searched the terrain in hope of finding the murder weapon, but were unsuccessful.

They were equally unsuccessful in obtaining any clues through questioning of residents in the district.

The only person who apparently heard the shots was Patrolman John J. Cronin, who was delivering ERA assignment slips in the neighborhood. He said he heard what sounded like two shots, but thought the sounds to be those of an automobile backing.

Cohen's body, face down in the mud, was found in the middle of lonely Prospect avenue by 16-year-old George Furgutson, who lives in the same thoroughfare.

Neither George nor his family, however, had heard any shots, they said.

2 DEAD

140 Poisoned BY PASTRY

Providence, March 7.—Two dead, 140 ill was the toll today in Rhode Island's poison cream puff mystery.

Early new cases of violent illness were reported, all traced to eating eclairs or cream puffs. State health officials believed they had discovered the cause—milk poisoning.

It was isolated from seized samples of contaminated pastry.

They were not yet prepared to name it or say whether the poisoning was accidental, or the result of negligence.

Most of the poison puffs traced to bakehouse here. Health officials discovered that an employee allowed an open tin of cream filling for eclairs and puffs to stand outside the bakery for two hours last Saturday morning.

In the opinion of Dr. Morris L. Cramer of the state health department, the contamination may have occurred at that time.

Ten of the new cases were reported from East Providence, others from Pawtucket, Woonsocket, Providence proper, West Barrington and Riverton.

Organs of the two children who died after eating the poisoned pastries were sent to the state laboratory for examination today.

Gas Killed Her, They Say

Gas Killed Her, They Say

Gas Killed Her, They Say

Dr. Carpenter was the first witness today as the inquest was resumed.

He performed an autopsy on Mrs. Davidson's body. It was questioned by J. M. Broughton of Raleigh, attorney representing the Statter interest.

Q—Did you form an opinion as to the immediate cause of Mrs. Davidson's death when you performed the autopsy on her body? A—Yes, carbon monoxide poisoning.

Q—Has your complete examination confirmed that belief? A—It has.

Q—What condition indicates carbon monoxide poisoning? A—The poisoning leaves a flushty cherry red condition in the skin of the victim.

Broughton then questioned about the size of the garage. Q—Give us the size of the garage, he directed.

Q—Twenty-five feet wide, 10 feet and 10 inches long, eight feet high. Counting out about there are 2500 cubic feet of space for air.

Q—Mrs. Davidson was found in the seat of kneeling position on the edge of the running board.

New Bruises

Q—Were there any bruises? A—On the outer surface of her left arm there was a blue area 35 by 15 centimeters (there are approximately 1.5 centimeters in an inch). There was a slight indentation of the skin.

Q—Did you find a scratch mark on her back, but I did not classify it as a bruise.

Q—In the upper third of her right thigh there was an abrasion or scratch mark. Just below the right hip bone and just back of the middle there was a blue area of hemorrhage beneath the skin, commonly called a bruise.

Q—Just in front of the middle, a similar bruise. In front of the upper third of the right thigh there were six areas of similar appearance.

Q—On the outer surface—upper third of the left thigh there were three similar areas equal in size. In front of the right leg below the knee three slightly bluish red areas. These I interpreted as old injuries.

Q—There were depressions near the knee cap I attributed to the corrugated rubber on the running board.

Q—How old were the bruises? A—Not more than 48 hours old.

Bruise Like Bite

Q—Describe the injury on the left arm. A—It was of reddish color and in my opinion may have been caused by pinching with a solid object.

Q—Could it have resulted from a bite? A—Yes, or a violent pinching. There were scratches near the edge.

Q—Would a person falling into the position she was in have received a bruise on the head? A—Yes.

Q—Did you find a silver plate in the head? A—No.

Q—Possibly, I know little about the shape of a dog's teeth.

Q—Mrs. Davidson had a Great Dane dog.

Q—In the autopsy or analysis were there any signs pointing to presence of something to produce sleep? A—No.

Q—There was nothing to indicate the injury on her left arm was caused by a dog bite? Carpenter said he did not think any of the bruises were contributory to the immediate cause of death.

Carpenter said: "There was a perforation the size of the pin point in the bruise in the arm."

Long Island, and Pinchurst to take the stand.

Q—Tell us about Mrs. Davidson's disposition, he directed.

Q—She was moody and temperamental.

Q—Once she ran out of my home and said she had driven around the loop—Southern Pines, Aberdeen and back in 20 minutes," Mrs. Vail said.

Q—Was she subject to fainting spells? A—Yes, she told me so, she told me she had a silver plate in her head and her doctor had told her a blow on the head might cause her to "crack," she said at the party. "Nobody loves me," I assure her they did.

Q—What was Davidson's demeanor towards his wife? A—Very courteous, very polite, very attentive when I saw them together.

Suicide Threat

Vail recalled, was asked by Boyette to tell of Mrs. Davidson's marital attitude.

Q—I was at the Davidsons' home February 8, I saw my wife, Mrs. Davidson, was moody and dependent," he said. "She cried and weeped, she ran out to the garage and turning on the gas."

Q—How long would it require for carbon monoxide to effect death? A—A person at that time would collapse in one hour if the gas was saturated to two-tenths of one per cent. It would take about 100 cubic feet of gas to saturate one per cent of concentration.

Q—Would you in your opinion have Mrs. Davidson been dead when her body was found? A—Mrs. Davidson might have been dead as much as two hours.

Could Have Fled

Q—Could a person awake in good physical condition get out of that garage before being overcome by the fumes? A—Yes, they could also have broken a window.

Q—Would a person placed there while unconscious also be subject to the carbon monoxide? A—Yes.

Q—Could a person in the position Mrs. Davidson was in have fallen from under the steering wheel? A—No.

Q—Could a person coming into the garage and walking to the car by the steering wheel have fallen into the position she was in? A—No.

Carpenter said "the victim assuming such a position by placing him or herself there would show a tendency to straighten out his legs when rendered unconscious by carbon monoxide."

Such is the feeblest, most ineffective sort of revenge. In France, after the monarchy was restored, the same thing was done with the remains of Voltaire that had been buried in the pantheon with great honors. His ashes were thrown on a garbage pile. But that was not effective, since his ideas could not be thrown away.

Ramsay MacDonald told the House of Commons that Germany's actions were causing a war scare and wanted his representative to discuss the matter with Chancellor Hitler. DIET TO CUT FOOD PRICES URGED

Robart for N. E. Menu

WEST AND SOUTH GET ALL U. S. AID, WHILE EAST PAYS

A weekly diet, approved by the State Department of Health, is the only way that Massachusetts can prevent further increase in the cost of food.

This is the answer that State Director Ralph Robart will give to members of the governor's council in response to their query as to what can be done to prevent any further increase in food prices.

Massachusetts according to Robart, cannot prevent food prices rising because the mid-western and southern Congressmen are lined up for their own sections against the East in passing legislation that militates against any decrease here.

No Fish Benefits

Mr. Robart said: "Massachusetts produces only about ten per cent of the food consumed here. Of this ten per cent the big haulers are the only ones that have benefited by any recently enacted Federal legislation."

"Fish, which is a major product here, has had no benefit from Federal law. The same is true of vegetables."

"Take in the mid-west and South there has been an 85 per cent benefit in major products in two years plus other things. It is the general theory that there should be such a parity that there should be buy-made goods."

"There is no indication here that the farmer's income increase brought about more employment."

"There is nothing that our representatives in Washington can do about it either. The line of mid-western and southern legislators is too powerful."

Eat Less Meat

"I will suggest that a purchaser's guide be established to follow the market. I will suggest that a weekly diet be established, approved by the State Department of Public Health. This will allow the consumer to buy to the extent of his buying power."

"As a result less meat would be purchased here. This will serve to show the agricultural administration that Massachusetts will not allow a provision that is a buy for meats at prices beyond which the consumer can pay."

Mounting Food Prices Worrying Washington

By JOHN T. LAMBERT
Washington, March 7.—The continued economic clash between the arm interests of the West and the industrial workers of the East is certain to be aggravated by the marked increases in the cost of food.

This is the viewpoint of government officials here who view the approaching conflict with some concern mingling with much political interest.

President Roosevelt alone seems to be disturbed by the skyrocketing prices. He has held from the start, the theory that commodity prices must be substantially increased if general economic recovery of the nation is to be achieved.

Heavy price increases of foodstuffs mark the two-year period since the advent of the depression and the vigorous policies of President Roosevelt to promote the return of normal business, increased employment and wages and improvement of farm conditions.

Some of the price increases, as shown by statistics obtained from the department of agriculture, are as follows:

Cereals, 34.7 per cent; meats, 85.4; dairy products, 28.6; eggs, 35.7; fruits and vegetables, 20.4.

The meat prices in that period showed these increases:

Beef, 35 per cent; pork, 65; lamb, 31; hen, 24.

Other heavy increase in the same period:

Flour, 18 per cent; cornmeal, 45; butter, 40; lard, 115; oleomargarine, 38.

Probe of Food Prices is Ordered by Roper

Washington, March 7.—Stirred by reports that fast mounting food prices are directly reflecting increased industrial consumption and pinning payrolls, Secretary of Commerce Roper ordered a sweeping inquiry.

Department of Commerce reports showed a 5 per cent jump in food prices in the last seven weeks.

Washington, March 7.—Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana said today his radio speech tonight in answer to General Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator would cover all the brigands.

He added that since Johnson made a speech attacking him and Father Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit priest, he had learned that Johnson's address was the start of a "planned out plan to wreck our share of the wealth movement."

"I have 45 minutes on the radio tonight," he said. "I took 40 minutes to tell them what I was going to do in the future and then five minutes to tell them what I had done."

"Long will be heard at 11:30 p. m. There will be 15,000 people listening to his tonight," he told and official. "Give me 15 more minutes and I will have the whole world listening."

"There is nothing that our representatives in Washington can do about it either. The line of mid-western and southern legislators is too powerful."

Husband Overcome in Newton Fire

Three children were led to safety today by their mother during a fire in a two-story single house at 8 Rogers street, Newton.

Awakened by smoke, Mrs. Norma Moore awoke her three children, 12, Barbara, 10, and Arthur Jr., 8, and rushed them to the street.

Then the mother returned to discover that her husband, Arthur E. Moore, 33, the owner, had been overcome by smoke.

Firemen and police arrived and carried Moore to safety. Then they discovered the family dog had also been overcome. Patrolman Charles Gonnale revived the dog.

Damage was estimated at $2500.

WINTHROP GAS, Power Rates Cut

Consumers of gas and electricity in Winthrop will enjoy a "substantial reduction" in their bills after April 1, they learned today.

The news was contained in a letter from Arthur F. Gardella, assistant manager of the Suburban Gas and Electric Light Company, to Leonard C. Atkinson, Winthrop selectman.

Gardella said the saving will amount to approximately $28,000 a year.

New York, March 7.—Fighting against death by deficits, the Metropolitan Opera Association in tends to make the next season the most ambitious in its history.

The program calls for the usual 14 weeks of grand opera, and then a popular season at which American singers will be given an unparalleled chance to win their spurs.

This supplemental season was one of the conditions on which the Juilliard Musical Foundation agreed to underwrite the 1935-36 season to the extent of $150,000.

The opera directors must underwrite an additional $100,000, the public co-operate by a 10 per cent increase in season subscriptions, and the personnel agree to lower weekly wages in view of the longer season.

PEEPER ARREST

Cheered by 100 scantily-clad girls students, police captured an intruder on the fire escape at the Boston University Theological School dormitory on Beacon Hill early today.

He proved to be a 13-year-old West End boy, a junior at English High School.

Patrolmen Fred Kahler and C. P. Shaw raced along the fire escape from the second to the fourth floor on the Mount Vernon street side of the building to make the capture.

The cluster of racing feet on the iron steps aroused those girls who had not already been awakened by the boy.

Complaints from the girls have been received for several months. Police were always just too late when Patrolmen Kahler and Shaw responded.

To juvenile court the boy was found guilty of delinquency. The court ordered final disposition delayed until his mentality could be studied.

Herbert Whitehead was designated to succeed the veteran assistant manager.

Edward Zeigler was retained as assistant manager.

ULTIMATUM

Genoa, March 7 (AP)—Bulgaria today protested in the League of Nations against concentrations of Turkish troops along the Turco-Bulgarian frontier, due to the revolution in Greece.

Gheveghelli, Greek Yugoslav Frontier, March 7—Reports reaching here today said Admiral Dometichos, commanding the rebel fleet, had wired the Greek Cabinet he would bombard Piraeus, port of Athens, unless the government capitulated.

The British battleship Royal Sovereign and the French destroyer Verdon are in the harbor that is threatened by bombardment. The British ship arrived today.

Ships of the rebel fleet are in the islands of Samos and Chios and forced their surrender, an official announcement said.

The international situation in Greece has become so serious the government is reported discussing the question of recalling former King George from India and restoring the monarchy as the only means of saving the situation.

This idea has gained since Mr. Metaxas, ardent royalist, was appointed temporary minister of war, succeeding General Kondylis, who is directing the military campaign against the rebels in Macedonia.

To add to the Greek government's worries it is reported spreading in the great tobacco growing districts of Kavala had issued a proclamation against the government.

Many American tobacco companies have offices, works and warehouses in Kavala.

Most Americans and other foreigners in the Macedonian battle area have departed for safety. About 35 Americans lived at Salonika, most of them connected with the Standard Oil Company, the United Engineering Company, the Anatolian College, the American consulate, the Y. M. C. A. and American Tobacco companies.

CURLEY Hears GRANT

THEN BODFISH TELLS STORY

Smiling, and booming a cheery "Good morning," Governor Curley arrived in his office at 11:05 a. m. today—and apparently took up immediately the Grant-Bodfish war.

Within a few minutes after the governor had entered his private office, his secretary, Richard D. Grant, went in and remained some time.

Half an hour later, the assistant secretary, William A. Bodfish, entered the governor's presence and remained about an equal length of time.

Neither Grant nor Bodfish, who clashed over office detail during the governor's absence in Florida, would comment, but it was understood Governor Curley had on his desk many newspaper clippings relative to their quarrel.

Governor Smiles

When Governor Curley returned last night from his brief Florida vacation, he passed the Grant-Bodfish row off with a smile, declaring:

"These difficulties have been exaggerated all out of proportion to their importance. I didn't hurry home because of them. But I will have a friendly conference and everything will be straightened out."

On the questions raised by the coming protests, Governor Curley preferred to let the state racing commission worry. He remarked:

"They are being paid to study the situation. They were appointed by my predecessor in office. They have lived with the thing now for weeks and they ought to be well informed."

"Of course, the chairman has resigned and next week I propose to nominate Tom Cassidy (ex-Senator Thomas Cassidy of Cheshire) to succeed him, but the other members ought to be able to advise me."

Governor Curley said he preferred not to commit himself on the bills to place Superintendent King and four police deputies under civil service, until the measure comes to him for signing. He felt the same way about the bill to transfer the Millers to state prison.

On the federal funds for Massachusetts, the governor said he had asked for $300,000,000 for this state and he was now anxious to find out just how much would be granted.

Gov. Curley confessed he knew little about dog racing and said that is why he is placing reliance upon the opinions and judgments of the racing commission, whose members have made a study of it. He said he did not cut his day in the South shortly because of the secretarial dispute.

SEES NEW DEAL Now 'Deadlocked'

Washington, March 7 (AP)—Dr. Charles A. Beard, historian, says the New Deal is deadlocked. "I think it is going neither to the right, nor to the left. I see no evidence of activity here or elsewhere to break this deadlock. I do not think the NRA has accomplished its purpose. But I do believe the NRA structure will continue."

Gabriel Lugot, Chef-de-Cuisine of New York's famous Waldorf-Astoria, is a connoisseur of seasoning. He chooses the best and uses it in clever ways. When he cooks Minute Steak a la Gulden—a popular dish at the Waldorf—he spreads it with Gulden's Prepared Mustard before broiling to add extra goodness. Serve it at home. Be sure to use Gulden's for that "Waldorf flavor."

Day-Old Enters Will Fight

Share of $50,000 estate of Dr. Walter Vaughan, Waltham dentist, is sought by Mrs. Margaret Vaughan, divorced two months before his death, on her claim that the baby, above, is legal heir.

A quarrel is being fought today for a one-day-old eight-pound baby girl who has come into the world of litigation. The posthumous daughter of Dr. Walter W. Vaughan, wealthy Waltham dentist, she was born in Forest Hills General Hospital to his divorced wife, Mrs. Margaret G. Vaughan. Three days before his death Dr. Vaughan made a will cutting out his wife and one-year-old son, Walter, Jr. Mrs. Vaughan is attempting to break the will, which disposes of an estate of $50,000, by making a sister, Miss Leah M. Vaughan, sole beneficiary.

WOMAN FOUND In Collapse

A young woman who collapsed in Tremont street, Charlestown, early today, was later identified at Haymarket Hotel Hospital as Mrs. Mary Campbell, 26, of Cottage street, South Boston. She was under treatment for exposure.

First News

This untold telegram tells a complete story:

"Editor, American, Boston, Mass. "Newark, N. J., March 6—I sell your paper at Newark Airport. Noted your story about Governor Curley flying here. Met him at plane at 2:05 p. m. Presented him with evening paper telling all about trouble. He wondered how we got paper here so quick, read the whole paper. Explained to him we had the paper here at 2:15. His paper was first to give him the facts. (Signed) MARY ROSE."

"Editor, the 'Jones' has always been the Boston Evening American's slogan. The paper is flown in Newark each day and is on sale there a few hours after publication."

GIRLS Offer Selves for BEAUTY TESTS

By Universal Service

New York, March 7—The women and girls employed by Good Housekeeping magazine will turn themselves over to beauty specialists today—not that they have to—when a Good Housekeeping beauty clinic is formally opened here.

The opening of the clinic is of interest to readers of the magazine because the facial, shampoo, hair treatment and manicures to be given—with the staff girls as subjects—will be performed with the "ultimate consumer" in mind.

Ruth Murfin, beauty editor of Good Housekeeping, will use the results of the clinic to give the women of America practical information as to the results obtainable from nationally-known cosmetics.

200 STRIKE In Malden Mill

Demanding a "living wage," 200 of the 300 workers in the Malden Knitting Mills in Eastern avenue, Malden, walked out on strike today, most of them women.

The workers have been employed 40 hours for a week of five days and the prevailing wage, according to Organizers David Dingold and William Rowe, is $14 a week in the busy season and from $9 to $10 for a seasonal average.

Picketing began immediately and extra police were sent to the area.

BANKER SHOVE of Malden Dead

Francis A. Shove, 80, for 21 years president of Malden Savings Bank until his retirement less than two years ago died at his home, 19 Edinboro street, Malden.

Mr. Shove is survived by his wife, the former Rebecca M. Tosier, a daughter, Mrs. Harry F. Damon, of Malden, and five grandchildren.

Lost on Way To Hail Curley

So Now Boy, 8, Will Have to Write

You don't have to be a voter—or even of voting age—to be an admirer of Governor Curley.

Eight-year-old Edward Powers, 84 Middle street, Roxbury Crossing, today was planning to tell that to the Governor himself—by mail. When little Edward heard yesterday that the Governor was scheduled to arrive at the Boston airport, the boy decided to be there to greet him.

However, he got lost on the way. As a result, Patrolman Thomas Magher found him asleep in Washington street.

"You can't arrest me," protested the boy. "I'm a friend of the governor. I see just on my way to meet him."

"Well, I'm not even thinking of arresting you," said Magher. "You see, the governor arrived at the airport sometime ago and he's home by now."

So it was that the police started Edward for his home with the advice that he send a letter to the governor.

"I'd do that," he promised.

AGED PROFESSOR Dives to Death

Easthampton, March 7 (AP)—Professor Sidney N. Morse, 76, died a few minutes after plunging into a pond on the Williston Academy campus here early today.

Medical Examiner J. D. Ryan said death resulted from exposure and shock during a suicide attempt. Several notes were left by Professor Morse, but the contents were not revealed.

Furs, Clocks Stolen

Beverly, March 7—Several valuable fur pieces and two clocks were reported stolen today from the estate of Mrs. Harold Coolidge on Branch Lane.

MILLENS Jail Transfer LEGALITY HIT

Another delay in the legislative move to transfer the Millen brothers and Abraham Faber to State Prison may arise in the order filed with the clerk of the House.

Both houses of the Legislature have passed the bill to be approved, and it will come up for enactment tomorrow.

The order filed by Representative Charles J. Innes, of Boston, intimates that both the federal and state Constitutions may be violated.

Death Hoax Ires Quincy Fire Chief

There is nobody sick or dead at the home of Quincy Fire Chief William H. Bands at 113 Wendell avenue, Wollaston.

The chief made this announcement today after being made the butt, last night, of one of those practical jokes.

Three taxi-drivers, within an hour, arrived at the house prepared to rush somebody to a hospital.

Then a florist's clerk with a funeral piece, C. O. D. Then a druggist's clerk with medicine, $1.50.

TROOPS Seize Havana University

By International News Service

Havana, March 7—Troops today occupied Havana University, took over internal tax customs offices and imposed a rigorous newspaper censorship as the government's hand finally fell heavily on the revolutionary strike movement.

The cabinet of President Carlos Mendieta, produced by the powerful Colonel Fulgencio Batista, issued an ultimatum to 20,000 teachers striking throughout the nation, ordering them to return Monday or lose their jobs.

D. A. R. Demands OATH OF ALLEGIANCE BY TEACHERS

MISS NANCY HARRIS

Through Miss Nancy Harris, state regent, of the Boston chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, members of that organization today gave support to the bill requiring all teachers in the Commonwealth to swear to uphold the state and federal constitutions.

In endorsing the bill Miss Regent said:

"The Boston chapter Daughters of the American Revolution are heartily in accord with the teachers' oath bill.

"We feel, particularly at this time, that there is not any too much patriotism shown in our schools.

"We feel that a teacher should be willing to take the oath to uphold the Constitution of the United States inasmuch as he is willing to receive his living from the state or city government.

"In many schools it is required that pupils pledge allegiance to the flag and we certainly would expect that their teachers too, be upholders of the principles on which our government was founded and preserved."

Serial Kept Gibbons Up all Night

"Jim Archibald's book kept me awake all night and made me live again days I had tried to forget. It is masterful in its compelling simplicity, and its stark honesty grips the heart. 'Heaven High—Hell Deep' will live and be read by thousands."

This is the verdict of Floyd Gibbons, contributor to the Boston Evening American, on "Heaven High—Hell Deep," Norman Archibald's thrilling war story, the serialization of which begins next Tuesday in this paper.

And a war story that can thrill a man who has seen as much of war as Gibbons has is sure to pack thrills for you, too.

Now is Gibbons the only one who has praised it. War veterans, educators, literary critics and writers have all joined in its chorus of praise.

Kermitt Roosevelt, Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, Louis Bromfield, Robert E. Sherwood and Professor Robert E. Rogers are a few of those who believe it is one of the best books to come out of the war. Thousands of boys have been pushed this story of a combat pilot into the list of best sellers week after week since its publication.

Don't miss a word of it. Remember, the first chapter appears in the Boston Evening American next Tuesday, March 12. Watch for it.

Found Dead in Bed
Manuel Ryke, 40, of 32 Allston street, Allston, a garage attendant, was found dead in bed today at his home after neighbors reported he had not been seen since yesterday. Dr. John R. Thompson of Glenville avenue, Allston, pronounced death due to heart disease.

ENTIRE NATION TO HONOR HOLMES

Washington, March 7.—Oliver Wendell Holmes rested today behind closed doors of the bedroom in his street home where death stole in and quietly claimed him as he slept.

The man, whose life will be recorded to posterity as a vivid example of all that which makes men to be judged great by their fellowmen, and whose liberal interpretation of the laws long will be remembered, will leave the world as he faced it—as a soldier.

He will go to his grave tomorrow—the very day 84 years ago he was born in Boston.

His casket will be covered with the flag for which he almost gave his life.

The body is not lying in state, but is kept upstairs in the seclusion of the high-ceilinged bedroom in which the famous jurist rested with his thoughts after he resigned from the Supreme Court in 1902.

Downstairs the writing desks and tables are piled high with messages of confidence from every part of the land.

Men from all stations in life, government officials and those who know Holmes as a friend, file sympathy through the doors of the plain red brick house and offer their sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Sachse.

President Roosevelt, who, with his cabinet and the Supreme Court, will attend the funeral and will bear a detachment of picked soldiers sound tape in Arlington National Cemetery tomorrow, said the country "has lost one of its first citizens."

The body will be taken to All Souls' Catholic Church about noon tomorrow for the simple services to which the public will be admitted. Harvard law students will be the ushers.

A joint session of the Senate and House to honor Congress' honor to Wendell Holmes was called for in a joint resolution introduced today by Representative Treadway (R, Massachusetts).

If Wilma Is Worried, She Doesn't Show It

ADA LEE MRS. WILMA E. GOULD
Maybe it's the thought of what she can do with the $500,000 she's suing for—if she gets it—which brings this beaming smile to the face of Mrs. Wilma E. Gould as she leaves the New York Supreme Court with Ada Lee, a friendly witness.

FISHERMEN Fight Pilot Bill

Glastonbury, March 7.—Glastonbury fishermen, who for 300 years have put in one month yearly, today were up in arms against a bill introduced in Congress requiring every vessel of more than 15 tons to have a licensed pilot.

Such a law, they said, would wipe out the fishing industry, at least so far as Glastonbury is concerned. Not one man in the fleet holds a license, it was pointed out.

SECURITY BILL Extolled by Wagner

New York, March 7 (AP).—Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York today extolled the economic security bill not only as humane and industrially helpful, but also as a paying proposition.

Addressing approximately 600 business men at a luncheon of the members' council of the Merchants' Association of New York, Senator Wagner said the measure will create the same sort of advantages that followed enactment of the workmen's compensation law.

ONLY Kissed HUSBAND NO OTHER, SAYS MRS. GOULD

By International News Service
New York, March 7.—"I have never kissed any man other than my husband in my life."

In restrained, clipped tones, Mrs. Wilma E. Gould, a witness in a rebuttal witness in her $500,000 conspiracy suit against her in-laws and others whom she charges employed "Prince Mike" Romanoff to drug and "frame" her wealthy husband, Edward B. Gould, might obtain a divorce.

Mrs. Gould was pale and serious as she categorically denied the damaging statements about her character made by defense witnesses.

Her attorney, Henry A. Uthart, asked her point-blank:

"Were you ever the inmate of a disorderly house in Chicago, or anywhere else in the world?"

"Never, never," Mrs. Gould replied.

Denies Stories

She denied the stories of Mrs. Marina Peterson of Chicago, self-styled leader of a notorious Chicago establishment, and Gail Wendell, an unemployed actress, who once lived with Mrs. Gould in Chicago, where they were friends.

Peterson had testified that Mrs. Gould had worked for her in Chicago up to the night before her marriage to Gould in 1921.

Mrs. Wendell had said that Mrs. Gould had admitted to her she was living with a race track bookie in Chicago in 1921.

The ex-actress also told of other alleged affairs Mrs. Gould had had with men. She said Mrs. Gould had boasted of a romance with air force pilot, the mysterious millionaire, and an Egyptian prince.

Mrs. Gould denied all of these accusations. She also denied she ever had told Miss Wendell that "Prince Mike" had not drugged her.

She denied kissing "Prince Mike" in a taxi.

At one point, Uthart declared: "No woman ever has been more falsified or fiercely attacked in her character than this little lady."

Introduced photographs of the actress in Seneca Falls, N. Y., home of the Goobles. One picture, a portrait in which Mrs. Gould played the part of Lauretta, a pioneer in the woman suffrage movement.

3 FACE QUINCY Alarm Arrest

Three prominent Quincy persons are under suspicion in connection with a false alarm epidemic. Fire Chief William H. Sands said today.

He further mystified his associates by adding that false alarms are being sounded by other than the usual method of pulling the book of a box.

There have been 24 night false alarms since January 1. Chief Sands and Police Chief Ernest H. Bishop have been secretly investigating for two weeks.

"If there is an arrest the identity will startle the city," said Chief Sands.

ITALY STARTS New Army Wave

Rome, March 7 (AP).—Italy today started a second wave of troops to join the 20,000 already assigned to East Africa and King Victor Emmanuel appointed Gen. Rodolfo Graziani governor of Somalia and the commander of the troops.

An official communique stated that Graziani, nominated by Premier Mussolini, and the first contingent of the Italian division already had disembarked at Mogadishu from the S. S. Vulcania and the S. S. Conte Biancamano.

ANN HARDING Back From Vacation

San Pedro, Cal., March 7 (AP).—Ann Harding, who left on a vacation trip shortly after her former husband, Harry C. Hamilton, fled out in Los Angeles, returned today.

Her stay-at-home daughter, Jane, was aboard the liner Lurline steaming into the harbor today.

When the actress sailed from San Francisco last January 26, her physician said she was suffering from exhaustion, caused by overwork. She had planned to go to China, but she did all her vacationing in Honolulu.

ECCLES Backs Tax for SHARE WEALTH

By Associated Press
Washington, March 7.—Redistribution of money—whether capital or income—burst forth today as political dynamite headed toward 1938 election contests.

From the throne of banking control—governorship of the Federal Reserve board—was heard advocacy of a new distribution of the nation's income. To this, Governor Mariner S. Eccles, added:

"The most effective way of achieving a better balance is through income taxes."

Inferences that Eccles' statement to the House banking committee might represent a Roosevelt administration reply to Senator Huey P. Long's "Share the wealth" campaign brought a denial. Eccles, it was made plain, spoke for himself.

But the political-minded could not overlook the fact that Eccles had been lifted to his high financial post by an administration beguiled by a host of men pushing what they term reforms for economic ills. Of these Long's share-the-wealth program is one only.

Betty Alden on 'Beacon Hill'

Davis-Whitman Ceremony in June

By BETTY ALDEN

WHEN TOMMY DAVIS, of Cincinnati, captain of the Harvard Polo Team for the past two seasons, went to Chicago for the game last weekend he received a warm welcome, and not just because he has a lot of college friends there and is a crack polo player... but because his fiancée, Nancy Whitman, is a great favorite of Chicago society... She has a wide circle of family connection in the Windy City, her mother having been the former Adelaide Chaffield Taylor of Chicago before her marriage to Hendricks Whitman...

Nancy has made frequent visits with her former schoolmate at Miss Spencer's, Jean Wilhelm, in Chicago, where she has had loads of parties given in her honor...

North Shore Bridal

NOW THE NEWS is out that both Nancy and her old friend Jean will stage their day of days in June... Jane will be married in Chicago to Daggett Harvey... Nancy and Tommy will plight their troth on June 19 in Hamill's quiet little Christ Church in Hamill-quest where so many other fashionable couples have recited their marriage vows...

The wedding will be performed by the Rev. William F. A. Stride and will be followed by a reception at Blantyre Farm, Mrs. Whitman's beautiful estate, a landmark of the North Shore countryside...

Rose Whitman will attend her sister as maid of honor and Mr. Davis' sister, Mrs. Sidney Hosmer of Cincinnati, will come on to be in the bridal procession... Alice Burrage, Nina Phillips and Isabelle Lawrence, all prominent North Shore pals of Miss Nancy, will complete the list of bridesmaids...

Nancy is a member of the Vincent Club, and was one of last winter's prettiest debutantes... Mr. Davis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Davis, Sr., will receive his sheepskin from Harvard in June... He prepared for college at St. Mark's and is a member of the Porcellian Club...

FREDDIE AYER, JR., of Hamilton also went to Chicago with his polo team to give the Chicagoans a sample of the East's top ranking collegiate playing...

The Bob Ogden have taken a house in Hewitt, Long Island, which means that Bob will be catching the 8:15 every morning to reach his new desk in the offices of the New Yorker... instead of his erstwhile march across the Boston Common to State Street...

Vacationing in Bermuda

OLIVE HIGGINS PROUTY (Mrs. Lewis I. Prouty) and her daughter Jane of Chestnut Hill, are sampling life in Bermuda for a few weeks... There won't be much time for a new novel by Mrs. Prouty until after Jane's wedding to Bill Smith, Jr., of New York and Charleston... which her friends are expecting to be staged in June...

Travelling has taken on such social lustre that it is a wonder there is any one left in town to see that the Vincent Ventures, the last Morning Musicals and the Balloon ball are staged with the proper eclat and with the proper social patronage...

Mrs. George Taylor of Andover has embarked upon a leisurely cruise around the world... Today Mr. and Mrs. Robert Amory and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stone will sail aboard the Haiti for ports in Central America and the Panama Canal... Fellow passengers on this cruise will include Mr. Thomas P. Beal of Chestnut Hill, Dr. and Mrs. George C. Shattuck...

Mrs. Fred Bates Lund has found so many interesting places to visit in Europe that she will not be returning to her home in Newton Center until the middle of April...

Fashion Show at the Touraine

AMONG OTHERS, Nancy Faxon and Ellen Gray, no sooner finished their luncheon at the Touraine yesterday than they grabbed their suitcases and dashed over to the Westminster to appear in their second fashion parade of the day... They were mannequined at the Touraine fashion luncheon while a large crowd of diners watched the display of individual new spring finery...

Highlights of the show were the navy blue street costumes worn by these two deb, the bright green travel coat, generously colored in beige lynx which Cathleen Moran wrapped so smoothly around her slim figure, and the boldly printed cocktail dress which Mrs. Alan Weatherly modelled... Another fashion show at the Touraine next Wednesday...

Life on the farm, no matter how palatial the farm and how social the life, finally irked Minna Lindsay and she went to New York to join the already overcrowded field of professional society singers...

The exotic Minna, daughter of the Thomas P. Lindsays of Southboro, made her professional debut at a large night club in Gotham last week while her parents, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Petrasch, made up a large party to give her an encouraging welcome, along with hosts of other friends who were pleased that her deep throaty voice made such a sensational hit...

Matching her naturally dramatic type to a long clinging scarlet satin gown, Minna made a very theatrical appearance at her debut...

Life on the farm, no matter how palatial the farm and how social the life, finally irked Minna Lindsay and she went to New York to join the already overcrowded field of professional society singers...

Books on Parade

By Miles Alden

REPRINTS on all sides we are advised to live in the present. The idea is sound enough, but it can be overdone—especially where books are concerned.

The reader who sees only the best of current publications is almost certain to miss the finest experiences that literature affords. The existence of such a reader is, of course, virtually an impossibility. Reference and allusion must eventually come to him to the books of other days.

Then he will appreciate the value of the many fine reprint series now on the market. They are among the most popular of these, perhaps, is the Modern Library, in which the reader will find no instruction. It has added two important books to its list: Hamlet's "Growth of the Soul" and a collection of Ibsen's plays.

Almost as well known is the Oxford University Press series of World Classics, the latest addition to which is Machiavelli's "The Prince."

Newer, but promising to be just as important, is the Modern Readers' Series. Like the others, these books sell for less than a dollar.

Outstanding in its brief list of titles are Robert P. Tristram Coffin's "Portrait of an American," a book that every New Englander must read, and Hamilton Gardner's "American Classic," "A Son of the Middle Border."

Benefit

A POST-CAMPAIGN entertainment will be pre-arranged in the interests of the Emergency Campaign of 1935 at 38 Chambers street at 8 o'clock this evening.

Mrs. Henry B. Day, Mrs. H. Addington Bruce and Mrs. Harry Heywood will be the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Richard Hamilton Jones and Mrs. Albert L. Croft.

SOCIETY Witness MISSING

IN SPOKESFIELD SLAYING TRIAL

In the ranks of society today process servers sought in vain for Mrs. Julia French Geraghty Williams as a witness for the Spokesfield murder trial in Dedham court.

The former society girl, related by marriage to the Van derbilt, the Astors and English nobility—and once the runaway wife of the family chauffeur—was drawn into the case yesterday.

District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing, who charged that Clifford C. Spokesfield, 26, 22A musician, murdered his 21-year-old wife, Marie, last September, leased the subpoena for Mrs. Williams last night.

According to testimony of Hugh Timbony, Cambridge oil broker, Mrs. Williams was in an automobile with him when they passed the scene of the alleged murder on the night of Mrs. Spokesfield's death. Dewing said today his process server had been unable to find the society woman last night nor today. Among other addresses at which she could not be found was one in Commonwealth avenue, Alston, Dewing said.

Timbony testified that he was driving Mrs. Williams to Falmouth and that they noticed Spokesfield repairing the motor of his car and his wife walking on the sidewalk within a few minutes of the time that a speeding train mangled the young wife's body.

Meanwhile, today, the trial produced a brief verbal tiff between State Detective Michael J. Fleming and Attorney John Newman, counsel for Spokesfield.

The detective filed of taking a story from Spokesfield the day after his wife's death in which the defendant claimed his wife became ill and fell over the bridge.

Attorney Newman's first question in cross examination was:

Q—Did you warn the defendant of his rights—that anything he said might be used against him in court? A—No. I didn't have to. It is not required by law and I never do it.

A series of rapid questions followed but Fleming maintained his stand.

Boy King, 11, Prefers Toys

Siam Calls Tiny Prince to Throne

By Associated Press
Bangkok, Siam, March 7 (AP)—The world's most newly proclaimed King would rather play than rule.

He is tiny Prince Ananda, ordered today to leave his school and go home and return to receive the homage of his subjects in far-off Siam.

The Prince gave out his first interview today.

Q—Are you glad to be King? he was asked.

A—No, he answered.

Q—What would you like to do? "I like to play with locomotives and trains."

It was suggested he would have a great many favorite toys, enthroned as King, but the wise little Prince commented:

"No, I won't. They won't let me."

Bangkok, Siam, March 7—Prince Ananda, 11 years old, today was officially proclaimed King of Siam and "Architect of the Ebb and Flow of the Tide," as the National Assembly voted approval of his accession to the throne abdicated last week by his uncle Prajadhipok.

Blondes Soon To Be Girls Of the Past

By Associated Press
Minneapolis, March 7 (AP)—If gentlemen in the future stick to their preference for blondes, they'll have to leave the United States to find them, says Professor Albert F. Jenks, noted anthropologist of the University of Minnesota.

Professor Jenks has found the first group of tall, blonde people who immigrated to this country—the Germans, English and Scandinavians—have interbred with later arrivals, the short and more heavily pigmented groups from southern Europe.

The result, he asserted, will be a typically American race—fairly tall, dark haired, dark eyed, and darker skinned than the present average.

Another discovery Professor Jenks has made in his classroom is that the modern coed's arm is longer than her predecessor's.

In measuring the arm spread of several co-eds to illustrate a textbook maxim that a woman's arm spread is less than her height, he found the opposite is now true. He attributed the change to athletics.

The day is coming when gentlemen who still prefer blondes will have to take 'em synthetic—or go without—according to a distinguished Minnesota anthropologist. He says that fair-haired, blue-eyed girls will be practically non-existent in the America of the future, because of intermingling of racial types. So, boys, you'd better take a good long look, next time you have a chance, at such "platinum" beauties as Joan Blondell, Jean Harlow and Alice Faye. And, if you want a little blonde, all to yourself, be sure to grab her quick, while the supply still lasts.

WALSH Accused by WITNESS

ANTICO TELLS OF HOLDUP

The jury at Edmund P. Walsh's trial for the killing of Malden Patrolman Isaiah McLean today finally heard the government version of details leading up to the shooting.

Guy T. Antico, 27, Malden insurance agent, was permitted to testify that in Pleasant street, Malden, a few minutes before the crime, he recognized Walsh as a man who held him up in his garage a week earlier. Antico, who gave a dramatic eyewitness version of the shooting, was not allowed yesterday to give this testimony in the way he wished.

Under cross-examination Antico said his memory had been refreshed in a talk with prosecution counsel last night.

He said he was not friendly to the defendant.

In the Middlesex Superior Court, Walsh eyed steadily at Antico through all his testimony, later turning to look at his wife.

Mrs. Walsh was again seated directly behind him in the first row of spectators.

1000 BASKETS To Be Distributed

More than 1000 Pauper and Elderly baskets are expected to be distributed this year by the Ward 14 Democratic Club of Dorchester through funds raised at the annual ball and cabaret, scheduled for April 8.

Charles Kaplan, president of the club, heads the general committee, and the ball committee is in charge of Abraham Shinsky and Dr. Bernard Finkelstein, state representative.

Rays Fatal At 30 Yards

Machine Determines Sex; Kills Pests

By International News Service
Leicester, Eng., March 7.—A new "death-ray" machine claimed to be capable of killing without pain at a distance of 30 yards, saving farmers thousands of dollars yearly by exterminating pests and perhaps some day even determining the sex of an unborn child is in the course of construction.

The amazing claims are made by the inventor, R. C. Chadfield, college lecturer.

At the moment the machine is just a heap of electrical odds and ends, terminals, a generator and coils of wire.

Chadfield says he has discovered the nervous impulses of living things are of electrical origin, and they can be killed by rays of different frequencies.

"I am determined to keep proper control of my discovery and to see that it is not used for evil purposes," Chadfield said.

"A human being," standing in the path of the ray, would be killed and would not feel it.

By experimenting with eggs Chadfield says the indicator needle goes to the left in the case of a male and to the right in the case of a female, adding he is now trying to adapt the machine to discover the sex of an unborn child.

NINE KILLED By Oil Well Blast

St. George, Utah, March 7 (AP)—An explosion at an oil well claimed the lives of nine persons and injured at least a dozen others gathered to watch the spectacular "shooting" of the first well in this district.

A deadly charge of nitro-glycerine, dropped into the unfinished well, exploded prematurely, ripped the derrick from its moorings and hurled it into the crowd which surrounded the well.

Mr. Boston O'Hara Moves to Natick

By Jack Conway

SPEAKING OF NEWS: Walter O'Hara didn't waste much time in walking out on the Suffolk Downs race track in East Boston. He didn't like the transportation facilities in East Boston, and will rush plans for his proposed track in Natick near Framingham.

The writer was first with the news O'Hara was looking for a track near Framingham. O'Hara felt that the East Boston tunnel would be unable to care for the thousands of automobiles who would wish to pass through Boston on their way to and from the track.

Edward Tuckerman Jr. and John Macomber will be associated with the project. The writer was first with the news O'Hara was looking for a track near Framingham. St. Petersburg, Fla., March 7—Fellow Tribesmen are far more thrilled over a casual remark by Babe Ruth than by anything the new vice-president, assistant manager has done to date on the field.

"Hon's Bravery Field," the Bambino wanted to know, "I've played a few games there and never paid much attention to the backstop."

"It's the worst in the circuit," piped up Wally Berger. "Right you are," agreed Bambino. "I've never played in a tougher one," contributed Rabbit Vician.

COMEDIAN AL TURNS INVENTOR

Walter Maegon, comedian and pitcher's coach of the Red Sox, has become an able inventor, and great "trickster," tackling the one and only Hagen with a mop for club, tennis ball instead of golf, and ash barrel for a bag. Two caddies, too. He needed 'em, with the unique outfit.

Jack Doyle, handsome Irish heavyweight boxing champion, has been seen in the company of a title-holding beauty in Hollywood. "The Irish champion should go well in the picture," says Doyle.

Jack Dempsey told me he would be happy to fight for about 10 pictures and go down to the "arena" to see the fighting. Dempsey plans to promote boxing in New York during the coming summer.

This Is Life

There are people, you know, who deny that there is such a thing as an aristocrat. They hold to the doctrine that everybody is as good as everybody else and equally worthy of the people's confidence.

Plutocracy, the superiority of the few, they understand, but not aristocracy, the superiority of the superior.

Let them remember the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. He was born an aristocrat and he labored to prove that position his right.

He was educated at Harvard and then at the University of Cambridge. He was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society. He was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society.

Served the Public

As he came out of the Civil War, Mr. Holmes was at the beginning of the tremendous industrial expansion of the United States. He was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society.

Guide to States

Mr. Holmes' habit of making an interpretation of American history made him believe that it was not the business of a court to interfere with the Congress in the exercise of its powers.

One of Few

He was one of the last remaining members of that class which the fathers of the Constitution believed were best fitted to safeguard the rights and privileges of the democracy.

HOLLAND BEBE

Daniels Gives
Screen
Recipe

By GEORGE HOLLAND

George Holland

Bebe Daniels believes it is easy to become a picture star but difficult to continue as one.

Daniels, who has been in the business for ten years, says that the secret of success is to be a good person, to be a good actress, and to be a good business manager.

She says that the first step is to be a good person. "If you are a good person," she says, "the people will like you, and the people will like you."

Then she says that the second step is to be a good actress. "If you are a good actress," she says, "the people will like you, and the people will like you."

Finally, she says that the third step is to be a good business manager. "If you are a good business manager," she says, "the people will like you, and the people will like you."

With the Boston premiere tonight, the business begins. Ten days here, and two weeks in Philadelphia, and then New York as co-stars of "Hollywood Holiday," the picture will be ready for the immediate foreground.

Miss Daniels' career has been a steady climb. She began in the silent films, and then moved to the talkies. She has been in the business for ten years, and she has been a success in every way.

She says that the secret of success is to be a good person, to be a good actress, and to be a good business manager. "If you are a good person," she says, "the people will like you, and the people will like you."

"I played daughters to pratfalls every day and act in the country. In those days," she said, "at the age of five, I was known as the youngest Shakespearean actress in the country. David Belasco caught me in one Shakespearean play, and sent me to California to play a part as little Shakespear's daughter."

"Years later, when I was 18, I was Mr. Nathan's leading lady in 'The World's Applause'."

Victor Herbert's Life as Screen Epic

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Los Angeles, March 7.—One of the biggest deals of this year is the contract that Ernst Lubitsch has signed with the Victor Herbert estate giving him the rights to some 500 beautiful Herbert melodies. Herbert, who wrote the music for "Naughty Marietta," "Red Mill," "Mile Modiste" and other operettas, was probably the most important musical figure in modern American history.

Louella Parsons

The whole town was talking in Los Angeles when the news came that Ernst Lubitsch had signed the contract with the Victor Herbert estate. The deal is one of the biggest of the year, and it is a sign that the music of Victor Herbert is being brought back to the screen.

Lubitsch, who has been in the business for many years, is a man of great talent. He has written many successful screenplays, and he has directed many successful films. He is a man who knows his music, and he is a man who knows his business.

The famous story I have heard is that Lubitsch has signed the contract with the Victor Herbert estate. The deal is one of the biggest of the year, and it is a sign that the music of Victor Herbert is being brought back to the screen.

"I played daughters to pratfalls every day and act in the country. In those days," she said, "at the age of five, I was known as the youngest Shakespearean actress in the country. David Belasco caught me in one Shakespearean play, and sent me to California to play a part as little Shakespear's daughter."

"Years later, when I was 18, I was Mr. Nathan's leading lady in 'The World's Applause'."

And then she says that she came back to New York to create a new role for herself. "I was a success in every way," she says, "and I was a success in every way."

COLD HARD FACTS ON U. S. SITUATION

WAGES SHOW BIG DECLINE

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL
Financial Authority

On Monday night, General Hugh Johnson, in a characteristic highly colored address devoted to defense of the New Deal, assailed all critics, principally Father Coughlin and Huey Long, at a dinner at the Waldorf Hotel in New York, apparently arranged for that purpose.

The General always puts on a good show, and had everything at his command. EXCEPTING FACTS, THERE WERE NOTICEABLY ABSENT. However, in his thoughtless CRACK DOWN methods, facts are apparently of small moment.

The NEW DEAL of the administration and the NEW DEAL of Huey Long have the same fundamental objective—logical redistribution of wealth by excessive taxation.

They both unintelligently center their attack on PRODUCTIVE INDUSTRY.

HANEY EXPLAINS Effect of Sterling Tumble

By LEWIS HANEY

(Professor of Economics, New York University)

New York, March 7.—The last week brought a general throes of international currency warfare, which is probably among the outstanding developments.

The immediate occasion for this development appears to be found in England's financial difficulties.

The pound fell to a new low when the gold and foreign exchange authorities did little to prevent the decline.

The usual under existing conditions, the decline in the pound tends to cause lower prices for commodities sold in world markets.

One's first thought would be that as the pound falls in purchasing power, prices measured in pounds would rise and in the case of gold and silver this is the case.

But the immediate effect upon ordinary non-monetary commodities is to increase pressure on export commodity markets.

The foreign buyer makes his payments in pounds, and as he can get more pounds for his own currency he is enabled to pay in England more cheaply.

On the other hand, a French exporter, for example, is hurt because in order to get the franc with which to pay him, a buyer in a "rich" country has to give more pounds.

A part of the game has been for the country whose currency is depreciating in foreign exchange to raise its currency "stabilized" at home, thus keeping its domestic prices from rising.

This further tends to discourage other countries from selling to it, and holds its markets of goods down so that they can export.

England has played this game more ably than we have. She does not object to the stimulus by boosting the price of her exports, but she does not object to the "par of exchange." It remains frankly and honestly off the gold standard.

The big question now is, can this foreign price-cutting game be resumed again without breaking down the pretense to maintaining monetary standards, and finally causing a world-wide monetary inflation which would put domestic prices up sharply in England and in this country.

It can see no good result. If England proceeds, and gains some initial success, the U. S. is likely to buy a lot of overvalued silver and eventually to "devalue" the dollar again.

Pounds, dollars, and yen would be more and more depreciated. Maybe sufficient political pressure would arise within even the gold bloc countries to cause them to embargo gold.

There would be no standard anywhere, and the last phase of the World War would be fought out!

RECOVERY HELD UP BY WASHINGTON

POLICIES ARE IRRITATING

By B. C. FORBES

There is a time for action, a time for inaction. President Roosevelt took office when action, swift, aggressive, courageous action, was demanded. Mr. Roosevelt rose to the occasion.

But conditions have since changed. It is extremely questionable whether Washington should now spring fresh innovations, should now force itself perpetually into the center of the national stage, into the limelight.

In my humble opinion, the time has come for Washington to cease becoming a disruptive factor, for giving the country a relative respite from political and business interference, for allowing industry and business a chance to work out their own salvation.

It is a possible employment cannot be reconciled to the economic pledges of Roosevelt.

It is far from a wholesome state of affairs. It is far from encouraging the millions of unemployed eager to find jobs.

It is far from heartening to owners of corporate stocks and bonds.

Unless the atmosphere clears reasonably promptly, the uneasiness in important circles may be increased by recession in activity and employment.

President Roosevelt's off-hand observation to newspaper correspondents yesterday that the dollar had not been depreciated sufficiently in relation to the debt burden of the country, naturally precipitated the assumption that further depreciation of the national currency was contemplated.

President Roosevelt calls "equities" meaning common stocks and other things which would be benefited by inflation, immediately feared.

Then came the presidential explanation that no further depreciation with the present 50 cents dollar was planned for the present.

Congress voted President Roosevelt power to cut the gold content of the dollar in half.

Therefore, without any new action by lawmakers, the dollar could be reduced to 50 cents.

The way things have been going, the present rate, unless recovery recovers itself, the dollar will be lowered.

No other government, no other organization on the face of the earth is piling up debts half as fast as the United States Government.

There is no international legislation to make easier the liquidation of debts.

But talk with any German or other foreigner who lived through gross currency inflation and your flesh will be made to creep with accounts of the cruelties inflicted upon all classes by robbing currency of its fixed standard of value.

It is too bad that this calamity would, resuscitated, begeth a presently optimistic nation could not resume its normal economic stride after all it has had to suffer.

How much further must unemployment be before the force of recuperation brings aside all obstructions to free action, including experiment-labor policies?

(Copyright, 1935, by B. C. Forbes)
